GETTING STARTED

How to Use This Pack

This is a practical resource — not theory. Every template is ready to copy, paste, and customize. Replace the brackets with your real details, run it in ChatGPT, Claude, or Gemini, and get a professional result in seconds.

STEP 1 — Pick your template

Find the business situation you need help with.

STEP 2 — Copy the prompt

Copy the template exactly as written.

STEP 3 — Replace the brackets

Fill in [BRACKETS] with your actual details.

STEP 4 — Paste into AI

Use ChatGPT, Claude, Gemini, or any AI assistant.

STEP 5 — Review & refine

If needed, ask AI to improve, shorten, or adjust.

KEY TAKEAWAY

These prompts work for solopreneurs, freelancers, small business owners, managers, and corporate professionals. Every situation. Every industry.

The Business Prompt Formula

Every great business prompt follows the same structure. Master this formula and you can build your own prompts for any situation.

ROLE	TASK	CONTEXT	OUTCOME	FORMAT	CONSTRAINTS
ROLE Who should AI act as? Example: Act as a senior marketing consultant / HR manager / CFO / sales coach	TASK What exactly should AI do? Example: Write / Analyze / Create / Summarize / Draft / Plan / Compare / Improve	CONTEXT What is the background? Example: My business is [TYPE]. We sell [PRODUCT]. Our audience is [WHO]. Budget: [X].	OUTCOME What result do you need? Example: The goal is to [increase sales / save time / impress a client / close a deal].	FORMAT How should the output look? Example: Email / Bullet list / Table / Report / Script / Plan / Checklist / Slide deck	CONSTRAINTS What limits or rules apply? Example: Keep under 200 words / Avoid jargon / Professional tone / No fluff

Write 3 professional, non-pushy responses I can use.
Each response should: acknowledge their concern, reframe the objection, and move toward a next step. Tone: confident and consultative.

PROPOSAL OUTLINE

Act as a senior business development consultant.
Create a professional proposal outline for [CLIENT] for [PROJECT/SERVICE].
Include: executive summary, problem statement, proposed solution, scope of work, timeline, investment/pricing section, and next steps.
Format: numbered sections with subheadings.

FOLLOW-UP AFTER NO RESPONSE

Write a short, professional follow-up message for a prospect who has not replied to my [email/proposal/quote] sent [X] days ago about [TOPIC].
Do not be pushy. Be curious. Offer value or an easy way to respond.
Tone: casual and human. Under 80 words.

TESTIMONIAL REQUEST

Write a short, friendly message asking [CLIENT NAME] for a testimonial or review.
We worked together on [PROJECT]. The outcome was [RESULT].
Ask them to mention: what they hired us for, what results they got,
and who they would recommend us to. Offer to draft it for them if needed.

Before & After: Sales Prompts

See how adding context and structure transforms a weak sales prompt into a powerful one.

✗ Weak Write me a sales email.	✓ Better Act as a B2B sales copywriter. Write a cold email to a HR manager at a mid-size tech company. I offer an employee wellness platform. Pain point: high staff burnout. Goal: book a demo call. Tone: professional but warm. Under 120 words. Include subject line.
✗ Weak Help me handle this objection.	✓ Better My prospect said "Your price is too high." Write 3 confident, empathetic responses. Each should: validate their concern, highlight ROI, and offer a next step. Tone: consultative, not defensive.
✗ Weak Write a proposal.	✓ Better Act as a senior consultant. Write a project proposal for [CLIENT] for a 3-month social media management service. Include: problem, solution, scope, timeline, pricing section, and a clear next step. Format with subheadings.

KEY TAKEAWAY

Format: numbered list with answer options where applicable.

Advanced Prompt Techniques for Business

Level up your prompting with these advanced techniques that get dramatically better business results.

CHAIN OF THOUGHT PROMPTING

Ask AI to think through a problem step by step before answering.

ADD: "Think through this step by step before giving me your final answer."

BEST FOR: complex decisions, analysis, strategy, risk assessment.

ROLE STACKING

Give AI multiple expert roles for richer output.

EXAMPLE: "Act as both a marketing director and a financial analyst.

Evaluate this campaign from both perspectives."

BEST FOR: multi-dimensional business decisions.

CONSTRAINT SHAPING

Tell AI exactly what to avoid to get tighter, better output.

ADD: "Do not use buzzwords. No filler sentences. No generic advice.

Every sentence must be actionable."

BEST FOR: copywriting, emails, reports.

ITERATIVE REFINEMENT

Use a two-step prompt: first draft, then improve.

STEP 1: Get the initial output.

STEP 2: "Now improve this. Make it more specific, more persuasive, and cut anything that does not add value."

BEST FOR: all business writing.

PERSONA TESTING

Ask AI to respond as your target customer.

EXAMPLE: "Act as a skeptical 45-year-old CFO reading this proposal.

What questions would you have? What would make you say no?"

BEST FOR: sales materials, proposals, pricing pages.

THE QUESTION PROMPT

Let AI gather more context before answering.

ADD THIS LINE: "Before you answer, ask me up to 5 clarifying questions that will help you give a better response."

BEST FOR: complex strategy, custom writing, personalized plans.

Common Business Prompt Mistakes

These are the most common reasons business professionals get weak AI output — and exactly how to fix each one.

1. No role or context

PROBLEM: AI does not know who it is or what situation you are in.

FIX: Always start with "Act as a [ROLE]" and give 1-2 sentences of context.

BEFORE: "Write a proposal."

AFTER: "Act as a senior consultant. Write a proposal for a 3-month brand redesign for [CLIENT]."

2. Too vague on the output

PROBLEM: You get a generic response that does not fit your needs.

FIX: Specify exactly what format, length, and structure you want.

BEFORE: "Summarize our Q3 performance."

AFTER: "Summarize our Q3 performance in under 200 words. Format: 3 bullet wins, 2 bullet challenges, 3 next steps."

3. Forgetting the audience

PROBLEM: The tone and language do not match your reader.

FIX: Always tell AI who will read or receive this.

ADD: "The audience is [investors / a skeptical CFO / a new employee / a potential client]."

4. Asking for everything in one prompt

PROBLEM: AI tries to do too much and does everything poorly.

FIX: Split big requests into focused steps.

BEFORE: "Write my entire marketing plan."

AFTER: Prompt 1: strategy. Prompt 2: messaging. Prompt 3: content calendar.

5. Not refining the first output

PROBLEM: You accept average output when great output was one step away.

FIX: Always follow up with a refinement prompt.

USE: "Improve this. Make it more [specific / persuasive / concise]."

Remove anything generic. Every sentence must earn its place."

UNIVERSAL FIX PROMPT

Improve this output. Make it more specific, more professional, and more tailored to [AUDIENCE]. Remove any filler. Under [X] words.

Business Prompt Quality Checklist

Run every important business prompt through this checklist before sending. The more you tick, the better your output.

- ☐ Did I give AI a clear role?
- ☐ Did I describe the business context?
- ☐ Did I define the target audience?
- ☐ Did I specify the format?
- ☐ Did I set the right tone?
- ☐ Did I give a clear task and goal?
- ☐ Did I add constraints (length, style, limits)?
- ☐ Did I say what to avoid?
- ☐ Is the prompt specific enough?
- ☐ Would AI understand exactly what I want?
- ☐ Have I broken complex tasks into steps?
- ☐ Am I ready to refine the first output?

Quick Refinement Prompts

R1 Make this more professional and concise. Remove all filler sentences.

R2 Rewrite this for [AUDIENCE]. Adjust the tone to match their expectations.

R3 Make this more persuasive. Lead with the benefit, not the feature.

R4 Shorten this to under [X] words without losing any key information.

R5 Add 2-3 specific examples to make this more concrete and credible.

R6 Restructure this with clearer headings and a stronger opening sentence.
